

Character Education Initiatives

The ministry of EPPIC has opportunity to advance the common good in public schools through Character Development Initiatives. EPPIC's director is an experienced public school teacher who recognizes the need to be developing character in students K-12. Throughout his tenure as a teacher, developing character was always a silent component of his philosophy, believing that a person's character underlies everything that he or she does and eventually determines who he or she has become. K- 12 education is the perfect place and environment to develop character qualities that will last a life time and serve each student well into their adult lives.

We believe mime can inspire and motivate students to make pivotal life choices that positively affect the development of their personal character. Through EPPIC's, "Each Person Progressing In Character" presentations, we have experienced this taking place in the lives of many students. If you're interested in hearing more about how EPPIC works with public, parochial, and private schools please contact us.

Interested in bringing an "Each Person Progressing In Character" presentation to your school? Go to our Connect page and use the Booking button to share your contact information and indicate your interest.

www.eppicministries.org/connect